

Chairman's Report

My last chairman's report actually got a "like" and a friendly feedback comment from a first responder who, I should mention, was of tremendous assistance to poor Councillor Dave Parkin when he was taken into hospital. I visited Cllr Parkin in hospital and he is making sufficient progress to possibly join us this evening.

Because of the Data Protection Act I am not allowed to mention the first responders name, even though I would like to publicly acknowledge their efforts. I have not mentioned gender as this might inadvertently help others identify the person who did such a good job.

A more sensible rule is in our standing orders and I would like to remind councillors of it. section 9 (a to h) this simply requires that residents or councillors wishing to add an item to one of our agendas should submit the item worded as a resolution which councillors can then vote on, to the clerk.
